DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 19-22, 25-27, 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Neumann et al. Neumann et al teach an information-processing device (cartridge), Figs. 1-2, comprising: a heat conductive element 25; a processor (one or more from 12-20) in thermal communication with said heat conductive element - plate 25; a printed circuit board 11 and a heat dissipating material 10 between the heat conductive element 25 and the processor; and an inserting plug connector 23 formed at an end region of the circuit board 11. Neumann et al teach furthermore said heat dissipating material is a silicon rubber ((col.3 line 36 through col.4, line 4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2835

4. Claims 24 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Neumann et al.

Neumann et al teach all the limitations of the claims except: heat conductive element is made of aluminum (claim 24), and the information device further comprises a housing (claim 29). Regarding to the claim 24: It would have been obvious to one ordinary skilled in the art at the time invention was made to make the heat sink from aluminum, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Regarding to the claim 29: Official Notes is taken, that it is well known in the art to make electronic systems enclosed in a housing in order to protect interior components.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 4-18 are allowed.

6. Claim 23 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter in the claim 23: Pins are perpendicular to the circuit board.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter in claims 4-18: A processor with a heat conductive element, said processor mounted on a circuit board, wherein said circuit board is between said processor and a compressible element.
